Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 29 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Increasing cloud through Thursday, followed by outbreaks of rain.

Today:
A largely dry start for most, with sunny spells. Cloud however spreading from the west through the morning, bringing showers. During the afternoon, cloud progresses across most of the region with outbreaks of rain, at times heavy, soon following. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Through the evening and overnight, winds strengthen with outbreaks of heavy rain continuing through the early hours. An unseasonably blustery and wet night, with gales to severe coastal gales. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Friday:
A windy morning with scattered showers and a few sunny spells between. Winds easing into the afternoon, with further isolated showers and spells of sunshine. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Conditions remaining mixed through the weekend with sunny spells and isolated daytime showers across the region, perhaps locally heavy. Similar conditions to start the new week with temperatures near normal.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.